You: what are the opportunities with the international affairs office at USEK?

Amanda 🇸🇩: The International Affairs Office (IAO) at USEK manages the university's international relations and develops internationalization strategies to meet the challenges of globalization. Here are some of the opportunities provided by the IAO at USEK:

- Erasmus+ International Credits Mobility: This program allows students to study abroad at partner institutions, gaining international experience and credits that can be transferred back to USEK.
- Memberships: USEK's IAO maintains memberships with various international networks and associations, providing students and faculty with opportunities for collaboration and exchange.
- International Summer School 2024: An opportunity for students to engage in short-term, intensive academic programs abroad, focusing on various disciplines.
- International Students Scholarship Program: Scholarships are available for international students wishing to study at USEK, which can help alleviate the financial burden of studying abroad.
- Study Abroad Opportunities: The IAO provides support and information for students looking to study abroad, including guidance on selecting institutions, preparing applications, and understanding cultural differences.
- AJYAL: Lebanese Heritage Education Program: This initiative focuses on promoting Lebanese heritage and culture, potentially involving travel and cultural exchange.
- International Projects: Participation in international projects can provide practical experience and enhance a student's academic profile.
- Be-a-Buddy Program: This program pairs local students with international students to help them acclimate to the university and Lebanon, fostering cross-cultural friendships.
- Global Engagement Certificate: A certification program that recognizes students who have actively participated in international activities, enhancing their employability and global awareness.

These opportunities aim to enhance the educational experience by providing global exposure, cultural exchange, and professional development in an international context.
